POLIS

Those lovers of the artistic—those who seek amusement of the refined and exceptional sort will be greatly pleased at the fine offering at the Polis theatre for the last half of the week.

The headliner in this program is undoubtedly Bert Lamont and his cowboy minstrels. They present not only an exceptional sextette but one of the most picturesque acts in vaudeville. The scene depicts a western prairie in the evening. The cowboys have come in from their work and gather around the camp. There they sing and smoke and perpetrate upon each other the jokes of the corral.

Mr. Lamont is versatile in his work besides having a rare voice. His associates are all exceptional singers. One little cowboy-girl attracted immensely.

Trovato, the violinist, in his usual manner swayed his audience with a remarkable repertoire. His execution and adept manner of imitating any cry or vocal effort from the audience was immense. He was required to make a curtain speech at the conclusion.

Theda Bara in East Lynne, the picture feature of the program appeared for the first time out of her ordinary vampire part. In this creation of the role in pictures she has surpassed and all critics concur in the opinion that East Lynne is one of the greatest film recently released.

Stevens & Falk, two girls in songs and dances with a beautiful setting for their act performed far above the average and pleased.

Catherine Cameron & Company in a comedy sketch dealing with stage life present truisms in entertaining form. The company carry out the lead set by Miss Cameron and in a comedy act including the canine feats of a small dog offer well balanced comedy throughout and enterprising well. Burlesque imitations are a feature of act.

PLAZA

It is a pretty story of love intermingled with plenty of thrills and adventures in which Bobby Harron and Mae Marsh are being featured at the Plaza the latter half of the week.

The title of the play is "The Wild Girl of the Sierras," and as the name suggests, the story concerns a protégé of the mountains who has had no knowledge of civilization and no companions but the beasts of the prairies. How she is discovered (or better, captured) by a young mining engineer, taught the rudimentary conventions of society and later wooed by this same young chap, whose money belt she has saved from the hands of sharpers, is thrillingly told. The play is in five parts.

The vaudeville program is headed by "The Miniature Kiddies," a singing and dancing fantasy put over by seven talented little tots, the youngest of which gives an exhibition of toe dancing that is a rare treat.

Yates and Wheeler have a novel singing, talking and dancing skit that wins favor. The act is an exceptional one from start to finish and offers a surprise that is greatly appreciated.

Edmunds and Leedom in "Going to the Wedding" get many a laugh. The male member is an exceedingly clever character comedian, while his charming partner is possessed of a splendid voice.

A pretty offering of song and roller skating is offered by Navin and Navin and yesterday's audiences gave them an enthusiastic welcome.

"Bath-tub Perils," a screaming two-part Keystone comedy, fills the bill.

WEST END

DeWolf Hopper and Miss Fay Tincher will be the featured stars tonight in the latest five act Triangle feature, entitled "Mr. Goode, Samaritan," at the West End theatre.

Harry McCoy in "Boules of Trouble," two act Keystone, and Hearst International News will also be shown.

Tomorrow, matinee and night, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "A Million a Minute," five act Metro. Telephone 2228-12.—Adv.

EMPIRE

Pauline Frederick known to photography fans as a star of stars will be seen in her latest release, "The World's Great Snare," adapted from the celebrated novel by that master writer of modern fiction, E. Phillips Oppenheim, which comes to this theatre today and tomorrow.

Miss Frederick's outdoor all her previous screen efforts in this Paramount five-part masterpiece and she is supported by the pick of the Famous Players company.

that leads a woman through immeasurable hardships and dangers in search of her lover, not knowing whether or not she will be repulsed when she finds him, the love that makes her smile with the thought of dying for this love of her heart—that in brief is the theme of this wonderful Paramount master-production.

The production according to all reports and reviews stands to be the foremost of the recent excellent Famous Players productions.

An all-feature and select photograph program will also be shown in conjunction with this masterpiece of the Silent Drama.

SPECIAL LOW PRICES FOR FILM SPECTACLE AT LYRIC NEXT WEEK

When one sees D. W. Griffith's wonderful film spectacle "The Birth of a Nation" and learns from it the many fact and sidelights of American history that are not to be found in the school editions of history, the thought comes that the educational departments of the country are neglecting the real education of the growing children. It is a known fact that the histories studied by the children in the South gave an entirely different version of the great struggle of 1861 than that which is given the schools of the North.

Then comes "The Birth of a Nation" and in clean, impressive motion pictures, gives the real story of this great struggle and the spectator, be he grown-up or child, realizes that in his studies of the Great Rebellion he has learned but a small part of the actual history.

For instance, it was new knowledge to many to learn that after the States of the Confederacy had signed a peace, there were Northern statesmen who wished and urged the President to treat the rebellious states as conquered provinces and to hang their leaders. This is but one of many things that are brought to light in "The Birth of a Nation" for the first time to millions of people who have always felt that they knew a better part of the real history of the Civil War.

The question arises in the minds of the many: "Why are so many facts kept from the students in the schools of the North and why should the people of the South be given a different version than the people of the North?" Why shouldn't there be one history for the entire country and that history absolutely truthful, unvarnished to suit the prejudices and sympathies of either class?

Must it remain for the motion pictures to give the people of the world the real truth of history and other educational matters? It would seem so. And if it must be, let there be more pictures produced like "The Birth of a Nation" which comes to the Lyric theatre of this city for an engagement of one week, beginning Monday, July 3, and for the first time at low prices, less than half formerly charged at any of its presentations.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Anne Fabryck of Spring St., Fairfield, has recovered so well from burns received several months ago that she is able to be out.

The advanced piano pupils of Miss Ethel M. Pigg will hold a recital this evening in Masonic Temple on Broad street, at 8 o'clock. Louis Ginnand, tenor, will assist. The participants in the program will include the Misses Viola Wagner, Esther Magnuson, Ernestine Lustig, Julia Adams, Olive Woodside and Marie Murphy. Clayton Chaffa and Masters Andre LePienne, Enoch Sprague, George O'Neill and Samuel Smick.

Admiral Winslow reported to the Navy department that a complete survey of the Mexican West Coast disclosed no trace of Japanese warships.

HORSE, FOOT AND GUNS, MILITIA ENTRAINS FOR SERVICE IN MEXICAN WAR ZONE

New York, June 28—If war is declared with Mexico there will be few athletes left in this section, as nearly all of the athletic celebrities will be at the front. When the national guard here was called nearly all the great track athletes hung up their spiked shoes and donned their uniforms. Major General O'Ryan, head of the New York national guard, has hundreds under him now. Among the boys of the Sixty-ninth are such cracks as Mel Sheppard, Pat Flynn, Horace Hocking, Jack Phillips and Tom Kelly. And Lieutenant James Archer is none other than Jimmy Archer of the Irish-American A. C., who, with Billy Shick, Howard Drew and Bobby Cloughen, are the world holders of the world's seventy yard record. Athletic stars are not lacking in the gallant Sixty-ninth. With the Seventy-first infantry are Homer Baker, Al Lake, Myles McHugh, Hugh Honahan, Joe Pearman, Nick Gianakapoulos, Teddy Matzukes, Eddie Sweeney, Billy Anderson—all names to conjure with athletically. And with the Seventy-first also is Norman Selby, the Kid McCoy of the prize ring. There are at least 300 athletes under the colors in New York. Upper picture in layout shows Mel Sheppard cutting meat for his company. Lower picture, Horace Hocking sawing wood.
